About The Great Australian Cookbook:

Ever wondered what Neil Perry likes to eat when he's at home with his family? What about the secret to Margaret Fulton's sponge cake, the spices in Christine Manfield's tamarind prawns or Frank Camorra's Spanish omelette? And how exactly does a prawn farmer prefer to eat his prize crustaceans?

100 of Australia's finest chefs, cooks, bakers, producers and food heroes were asked a simple question, "What is the food you make for the people you love?"

To capture these very Australian characters and create this ambitious collection of recipes, co-editors Helen Greenwood and Melissa Leong were joined by a production crew, which spent six months on the road, travelling the length and breadth of the country.

Acclaimed artist Reg Mombassa brings his distinctive creativity to this astounding collection of recipes, and royalties will benefit Australian charity OzHarvest to help support their inspired efforts towards distributing food to people in need.
